C. H. MALLORY & CO., Arents. The National Rise Association have brought to a close a very brilliant season and inaugurated a pastime that gives promise of attracting nearly universal attention from the young men throughout the country. The merit of rife shooting does not rest merely in the amusement it affords or the benefit derived from open air exercise, but in the fact that it is developing an army of marksmen that can lend an uncerring eye and a steady hand when their country needs their assistance. During the past six months a spirit of rivalry has the property of the different sprung up between the members of the different regiments of the National Guard, and the result has been highly beneficial, as shown by the scores made by their different teams on repeated occasions. Unfortunately, the movement on the part of the National Guardsmen to avail themselves of the chance to become perfect masters of the rifle has been confined to individual members, instead of the regiment en masse.

The National Rifle Association has done a great deal during the past year to encourage the

to practise marksmanship, and it is to be hoped they will respond by doing all in their power toward its support. Many will probably be astonished to hear that the total receipts of the past year derived by the association from members of the National Guard will not amount to more than $750. The annual subscription to the association is $3 per annum, but when a company in a regiment joins in a body the subscription is reduced one-half, as the association conclude that not more than half the memoers will make use of their range at Creedmoor. There are now four companies of the Seventh regiment, one company of the Iwenty-third regiment and from fifteen to twenty individual members of each regiment enrolled in the association. In fact, the annual subscriptions do not go anywhere near paying the expenses, and the association has been run this year chiefly PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

They have been in such financial difficulties that when pressed for money the officers of the association used to go around among their friends trying to drum up some life members in order to supply the treasury with lunds. Next year, unless the annual subscription list swells up immensely, they are going to have a hard time to get along, as the November elections killed all hopes of an appropriation when the CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT was passed prohibiting any grant of money being made by the State, county or city in aid of any private association, corporation, &c. That law takes effect on the 1st of January, and therefore there are no hopes of their receiving the $7,600 that was so well put out on the new buildings, re-

$\frac{10}{5}$ \frac{1}{3}$ \fr

there are no hopes of their receiving the $1,500 that was so well put out on the new buildings, repairs of embankment and other unavoidable expenses necessary for the preservation of the range at Creedmoor.

The expenses of the association are very heavy, as they have to pay the saiaries of an assistant secretary, superintendent of the range and two or three men that are constantly employed keeping the grounds at Creedmoor in proper condition, or as markers at the targets. They nave also office rent, stationery, &c., that help to swell the bill of expenses. In consideration of the appropriation made by the State this year the National Guard have been allowed the use of the range, and the association are determined to continue that privilege, notwithstanding the fact that they can receive no further appropriations.

THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN, seeing the good already achieved by the National Rine Association, have authorized the Board of Apportionment to appropriate $5,000 for their benefit, and, as it is understood that Mayor Vance is in layor of the donation, there is a probability of the association having some funds to keep the range at Creedmoor in proper repair.

The range at Creedmoor is beginning to look rather deserted, as it is only patronized now by the members of the team and some lew others. It is the intention of the association to keep up the OLD TEAM organization, and to add to their number, so as to make them about twenty all told. They will then select one of their number as captain, probably Colonel Gildersleeve, as Colonel Wingate has declined to act on account of unavoidable professional duties. This team will practise pretty steadily during the winter, and then in May it is proposed to have a grand contest, to which all the ridemen of the United States will be invited. The team to go to Ireland in June will then be selected from the riflemen making the best scores at that contest. In deference to the wishes of the American team, among whom are saveral gentlemen who object to shooting for money, hall street, foot of Broadway, for New Brighton, Snug from 6:30 A. M. to 7:30 P. M. daily: Sundays every two match between the Irish and American teams shall be for a cup or badge and not for a money prize. The Leech cup will be made the prize for a grand shoot for the championship. The winner will be allowed to hold the cup for one year and then will have to return it to the association, retaining a gold medal as a trophy of his victory. The Leech cup will probably be shot for in the latter part of May. It will be open to competition of American citizens.

Such is the interest now taken in rifle shooting that

taking example from the yearly rifle matches between Oxford and Cambridge, is going to send a team to Creedmoor to practise, and intends to challenge some of the other colleges. This will probably result in some intercollegister rifle matches that will help to swell the programme during the boat race week.

The American Rifle Association have a shooting range in Westchester county, and, like all new beginners that try to jump to the top of the ladder before they have surmounted the first few steps, have adopted the ginners that try to jump to the top of the ladder before they have surmounted the first few steps, have adopted the WIMBLEDON TARGWIS and rules. Such action complicates affairs in a very unnecessary manner, as those targets are divided into bullsey, centre, inner and outer, and thus render it impossible to compare their shooting with that done on the Creedmoor targets that have the three divisions—bullseye, centre and outer. The Wimbledon targets are not used in Ireland or the Canadas, and, in fact, are only used at the English rife shooting headquarters in order to avoid ties. That is all very well where the marksmen are so very expert as to invariably himear the centre of their target, but it would probably have been more expedient for a young association to practise at the targets in comman use than to jump for those especially constructed for experts of known skill.

A movement is on foot to arrange a RUNNING DEER or figure at Creedmoor for a mark to shoot at off-hand. The deer or figure will be on a truck that will run on rails up and down an inclined plane. They have a deer as a mark at Wimbledon that is fixed on an eccentric, so that it gives a jump every few yards. Marksmen are allowed to shoot at it with a double-barrelled rifle, and are fined for every ball they put in the hind quarter.
